A PROTEST AGAINST GAGGING THE FRENCH PRESS.

VERSAILLER, Sept. 18.—At the sitting of the Permanent Committee of the Assembly last evening, M. Tardieu, of the Left, interpellated the government concerning the continuation of its rigorous treatment of the press. He declared the system of intolerance and censorship in its application. The Republican press alone was suspended. He protested against the warning addressed to the Journal des Debats.

M. Chombard, Minister of the Interior, replied that the government was determined to oppose the calumnies against the majority of the Assembly and the government. Viscount D. d'Auberville, of the Right, interposed a protest against the suspension of L'Univers, which act he intimated came from foreign dictation. Duke de Castes pointed out that the Spanish ambassador was still unaccredited when the objectionable article against Garret was published by L'Univers, he implicitly declared that there was a dictation from any quarter. In answer to another question from V. D. Auberville, the Duke stated that nothing had been done in regard to the withdrawal of the man-of-war Orenouque from Cerita Vichy he objected strongly to the exposure of diplomatic business required by the interpellations of this character.

Centrifugal Power.

[From Harkness' Magazine for September.]

If the power is conveyed to your driving shaft by a fixed pulley, and to that fixed pulley by its being placed between two larger pulleys pressing upon it with their pressure augmented by a belt passing over them both, while one of them is shaft driving its power from the engine—that is centrifugal power—is a thing not to be despised. If it is going to revolutionize mechanics. You may smile, but what we have taken the foregoing 44 words to define, we can explain better to you with three letters, that: O-o-o, a little or two, or a big O, that is all, except that you must put a belt around your two big O's, then set one of them in motion, when, of course, they all go. Now the little o is on the shaft that drives your machinery and one of the big O's is on a shaft that gets its power from the engine. That is all! But suppose even that to that millions of dollars.

Now you laugh outright with incredulity. But if you will go down to the Lowell Car Wheel Company's works, you may find not only Mr. George G. Lowell, their founder, a man who has stamped his inventive genius on everything in his works, but also Mr. McCracken, his gentlemanly foreman, who is also a man of genius and has evidently a strong, unobscured and unobscured sympathy with his employer to the effect of executing the aforesaid inventive genius, from Mr. McCracken and his engineer and your own personal observation, you can satisfy yourself that a 150 horse power engine from 60 to 70 lbs. of steam carries 400 feet of shafting and 400 feet of counter shafting from 40 to 25 inches in diameter, much of it being the larger size and loaded down with the largest machines and heaviest work. You will find all to be driven by a belt about 15 inches wide and not over heavy. It is the main shaft which constitutes one of the pulleys. We heard that the Centrifugal power is to be introduced in our new rolling mill.

River News.

The river remains very low, with no indications of a rise. The marks still indicate twenty-seven inches.

The Sam Craven and Orion departed for Parkersburg, the former carrying the mail. Both boats had good trips.

The Ed. Pope left for Matamoros. The Willie J. arrived and departed for Sunfish as usual.

The steamer Mollie Burt, Capt. Batchelor, has laid up at Cincinnati, on account of low water.

The steamer Granite State has been chartered by the Mail Company, and is running between Cincinnati and Louisville.

The steamer Salt Valley has been chartered to take the place of the Willow, in the Cincinnati and Mayville trade.

GOING DOWN THE OHIO.—We have said that navigation from this port down the Ohio has suspended. We take it all back. Messrs. Aaron and Mill. McLaughlin and M. Orman left yesterday in a good-sized skiff for Marietta and way points, for the purpose of examining the channel. The McLaughlins are pilots of the steamer Carrie Brooks. We expect to hear from them along the way.—Pittsburgh Commercial.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18.—River three feet and falling.

EVANSVILLE, Sept. 18.—Weather clear and hot; mercury 65 to 84 deg. River falling slowly, with 2 feet scant above and 20 inches below. No arrivals except the short line packets and the Arkansas Belle from Cairo. The Silverthorn goes to Cairo in place of the Arkansas Belle. The Mary Miller is still at the Arkansas Belle, but expects to get over soon. Business has been no Louisville packet for two days.

COURT CASE.—This Court met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock.

Geo. O. Davenport, Esq., announced to the Court that General James S. Wheat, a member of this bar, had departed this life on Thursday at noon, whereupon it was ordered that Court be adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

It being suggested that General James S. Wheat, while a member of the late Constitutional Convention of this State, proposed and secured the adoption of the Article of the Constitution under which this Court was organized, and at the request of the Board of Supervisors drafted the bill enacted by the Legislature establishing this Court and the Board of Commissioners of this county, it was ordered that a committee of five members of the bar, consisting of Daniel Lamb, Geo. O. Davenport, J. H. Good, Daniel Peck and Robert G. Barr, be appointed to draft a memorial to be entered upon the minutes of this Court, expressing the sentiments of the bar and people of the county upon the loss they sustained in the death of Gen. James S. Wheat.

He is able to present to his customers as complete an assortment of goods for the fall and winter trade as has ever been brought to the city. Parties will find at this establishment a very choice selection of the best qualities manufactured, while suits are made to measure with the best of workmanship, and perfect fits guaranteed. PALMER PATENTERS.—Some weeks ago Mr. Smith McDonald, proprietor of a lively stable, entered an information before Squire Clark charging W. B. Ferrell with obtaining a horse and buggy under false pretenses. Ferrell engaged the buggy from Mr. McDonald for the purpose of going out in the country to sell goods, but the complainant alleged that the defendant went instead to the Moundsville camp meeting, where the buggy was broken to fragments and consequently never returned. Ferrell gave bond for his appearance yesterday, when he waived an examination and was held in the sum of $1,000 to answer at the County Court.

POLICE COURT.—At the police court yesterday morning three cases awaited examination. They were disposed of as follows:

Samuel Murry, alias Samuel Hays (colored), was fined $5 and costs for committing an assault and battery upon a whiteboy named Edward Gibbon.

Thomas Young, charged with creating tumult and disorder, was fined $2 and costs.

The case of John McGarrell, who is charged with selling without license, was continued to this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

'Squire McCormick in Luck.—Our clever judicial friend, 'Squire McCormick, has just received intelligence of the death of a relative residing at Martinsburg, who leaves property valued at about $100,000. The 'Squire is one of four heirs to the estate, and has been notified to go to Martinsburg and receive his share. This good fortune was entirely unexpected, as he had forgotten that he had such a relative. Nevertheless he will start early in the coming week to look after his interests. The 'Squire is not the man to go back on his less fortunate friends, either.

OBSTRUCTING COUNTY ROADS.—A complaint was made by Daniel Thornburg before Squire Gillespie yesterday against Jacob F. Leikert, for unlawfully obstructing the Cumberland Road. The country people complain a great deal of the roads being obstructed, and they should be afforded some relief. Leikert was arrested, but the examination of the case was postponed until Saturday next.

U. S. COURT.—This Court resumed its session yesterday morning.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—During the week just ended five marriage licenses were issued in this county, viz: Saturday, Monday and Tuesday one each, and two on Wednesday.

THE DAY OF ATONEMENT.—Among the holidays observed by the Jews is the Day of Atonement which occurs to-morrow. It is ordained in the 23d chapter of Leviticus, and is a day of total abstinence from food of any kind. It is kept holy by all who have any claim to the name of Jew.

On this great occasion the Jews have, for more than three thousand years, met in their synagogues in all parts of the world, and made atonement for, and repented of their sins. The fact, by itself, is not regarded as a sufficient atonement for the sins of the year. This is plainly shown in the rabbinical writings. Malmonides says: "True penitence consists in this: That the sinner forsake his sin, and put it away from his mind, and that he sincerely resolve not to commit it again." The Mishna says no atonement can be made without penitence, and the Jewish Scriptures declare that no sinner will be forgiven unless he repent and make restitution for his sin. The Day of Atonement has always been, and is still to a great extent, regarded by all pious Jews as the image of the day of their death, and from the earliest times, they have been in the habit of going to their cemeteries a few hours before the beginning of the fast to meditate near the graves of their dead on their own approaching end and the necessity of preparing for it. It was also the custom of the Jews to seek out on the eve of Atonement Day every neighbor whom they had injured, to make him full reparation, and every man whom they had wronged to ask his forgiveness, so that they might begin their fast at peace with man, as they hoped to be at peace with their God. Though these customs are not now generally observed, still the Day of Atonement exercises a very strong influence over even the least religious of the Jews.

To the pious Jew, who observes the Sabbath and all the festivals, this is a day on which no worldly act or thought must be permitted. He generally goes to the synagogue at 8 o'clock in the morning, and does not leave his place until the blowing of the "shofar," which makes known the ending of the fast, at about 6 in the evening. The services for the day are very impressive. It is used to be the custom, and it is still with many of the orthodox German and Polish Jews, to go to the synagogue on Atonement day in their robes, or at least to wear their shrogs during the service, in order that they might not for a moment forget the awful meaning of the day they were observing.

Deed made Feb. 26, 1873, by John McCarty and wife to James Burke, for mid-corner third of lot No. 10, east side Main street, between Division and Preston streets, Sixth Ward. Admitted Sept. 17, $900.

REMOVED OF $60.—Albert Grotte and J. O. Schober have boarded for a week or two past with W. H. Starke, on the corner of Market and 14th streets. Grotte recently engaged in the furniture business on Main street, and Schober belongs to that numerous class who are described as having "no visible means of support." Grotte, however, was in funds, and yesterday morning the twin made a tour of the saloons, and during the course of the forenoon drank considerable buttermilk—at Grotte's expense, of course. A bath was proposed, and although not precisely in Schober's style, he took it. He also took in about $60 of Grotte's money, which he found in the pockets of the latter's pantaloons while he was in the bath room. As soon as he got the money he cried, Westward boy and cantered at a lively pace toward the calm and beautiful hamlet of Bridgeport. Grotte came out of the bath much refreshed, but his blood went up several degrees and his pulse beat a tattoo upon discovering the loss of his money. He darted out immediately, and ran with the speed of a camel toward the river. He didn't cry "come back, Lord Willie's daughter," but he boldly entered the water, and unlike Leander waded the stream to cut off the retreat of his late partner. In a few moments he waded back a sadder but not wiser man. An officer was furnished a description of the thief, and started upon his trail.

P. S.—Since writing the above we have learned that Grotte received a dispatch from Bridgeport, stating that Schober had been arrested at that place about 6 P. M.

BOAT LOAD OF PILOTS.—The little steamer Little arrived at the wharf about 7 o'clock last evening, with fifteen or twenty steamboat captains and pilots aboard. These gentlemen are en route from Pittsburgh to Pomeroy, and during the low water are leisurely inspecting the channel of the river. They travel only during the day, laying over at night. The Little will proceed on her journey this morning.
